British court decides all flights to occupied Cyprus are illegal

On Tuesday the Administrative Court of the High Court of Justice, Queen’s Bench Divi-ision, of the United Kingdom dismissed an application for judicial review. The review was brought forward by Kibris Tunca Yolca (a company registered in Turkey) and CTA Holiday (a company registered in the UK) against the decision of the Secretary of State for Transport to refuse their applications for the granting of permits to conduct direct flights, scheduled and non scheduled, chartered, be- tween the UK and the airport operating illegally in the occupied area of the Republic un-der the name of “Ercan.”

The application was filed by the Law Office of the Republic of Cyprus. The Court ruled that the Republic of Cyprus enjoys exclusive sovereignty over its entire territory and the territorial waters adjacent thereto, irrespective of whether it exercises effective control over the whole of such territory. The “exclusive sovereignty extends, under the Convention, to the airspace over its entire territory and territorial waters,” the Law Office said.

The Court unequivocally held that the Republic of Cyprus enjoys exclusive sovereignty over its entire territory and the territorial waters adjacent thereto, irrespective of whether it exercises effective control over the whole of such territory. The “exclusive sovereignty extends, under the Convention, to the airspace over its entire territory and territorial waters,” the Law Office said.

In the judgment Mr Justice Wyn Williams dismissed the applicant’s case, fully adopting the arguments submitted by the UK Government and the Republic of Cyprus that the Secretary of State for Transport was obliged to reject the applications by reason of (a) the UK’s obligations to respect the rights enjoyed by the Republic of Cyprus as a Contracting Party to the Chicago Convention on Internationally Civil Aviation (“the Convention”) and (b) the UK’s obligations not to recognise the self-styled “Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus” (“TRNC”) and acts emanating from such non-recognised entity.

In order to determine the UK’s obligations in this regard, the Court dealt primarily with the interpretation of the term “sovereignty” under Articles 1 and 2 of the Convention. Dismissing the applicant’s position and adopting the arguments of the Defendant and the Interested Party, the Court held that “sovereignty” in the Convention should not be given a different meaning from its meaning in customary international law. Therefore, sov-everignty does not require, nor depend upon, the exercise of effective territorial control.

The territory of the Republic of Cyprus, as deemed by Article 2 of the Convention, is the land areas and territorial waters under its sov-everignty. Given the interpretation adopted by the Court of the term “sovereignty,” the terri-ory of the Republic of Cyprus is the whole of the island of Cyprus and the territorial waters adjacent thereto. Thus, under the Convention, the Republic of Cyprus enjoys exclusive sovereign-y over the airspace above the whole of the island of Cyprus and the territorial waters ad-杰特 thereto.

The Law Office said that according to the judgment, no permits for scheduled or chartered flights or for landing at designated airports can be granted, other than by the government of the Republic. The granting of such permits by any State, or permits as respects “Ercan,” are unlawful and violate the Republic of Cyprus’s rights under the Chicago Convention. The judge refused to apply a suggested analogy that permitted flights to Tai-wain.

Furthermore, it noted that the duty of their Courts not to give effect to the validity of acts in unrecognised territories unless the acts can properly be regarded as essentially private in nature cannot be given validity. Thus, permits in the area of international aviation cannot be granted.

The Court concluded that, if the UK were to grant any of the permits applied for, this would render the UK in breach of its obligation to respect the rights of the Republic of Cyprus.

Tories on course for majority of 152 seats at next election

The Tories have opened a commanding 18-point lead over Labour, enough to put David Cameron into Downing Street with a general election majority of more than 160, according to the latest ComRes poll for The Independent. The Survey puts the Conservatives on 42 percent (up six points on last month), Labour on 24 percent (down one), the Liberal Democrats on 18 percent (down one).

The Tory surge will deal a further blow to Labour morale after a torrid spell for Gordon Brown which culminated in the party’s heavy defeat in last week’s Norwich North by-election.

Repeated at a general election the results would give Mr Cameron a Commons majority of 152 and mean that many prominent Labour figures lose their parliamentary seats. However, David Cameron said he is not taking victory at the election for granted, saying the public are still going to take “a lot of convincing” to elect the

Cypriot MP proposes measures to alleviate poverty in Asia

Cypriot MP Nicolas Anastasiades, in a meeting of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly Subcommittee on Alleviating Poverty in Asia in Sin-Real, Cambodia, proposed a series of measures to train people in rural areas in an effort to attract foreign investments and in the long term require less external loans.

In his remarks, Anastasiades suggested that funds for rural development are given directly to the Asian Development Bank or other international institutions to lessen the danger of mismanagement of these funds or to face issues of corruption. Anastasiades also referred to tax exem-tions as motives to attract foreign investments but also agrotourism, which will attract a number of visitors, in line with the new tourism trends.

He also said that aims should be mutual and that there is a political will for human rights and international law to be respected.

The Chair MP’s were welcome by the assistant General Secretary of the Association Dr. Majid Taalavan and were included in the APA’s report in alleviating poverty in Asia, which will be approved during the plenary meeting in Indonesia next November.

Cyprus Foreign Minister briefs his EU counterparts and meets with Carl Bildt

The Minister of Foreign Affairs Mr Markus Kyprianou briefed his EU counterparts, in the framework of the General Affairs and External Relations Council yesterday in Brussels, on the recurring violations of the Cyprus Republic’s sovereign rights by Turkey in both air and sea space. Speaking during a working lunch of the EU’s 27 Mr Kyprianou made reference to Turkey’s provocative actions within the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) concerning in particular the harassment of research vessels conducting explorations on behalf of the Cyprus Republic within the Cyprus EEZ and the recent decision of the Turkish Government to approve a demand by the “Turkish Petroleum Corporation” to embark upon oil and natural gas explorations in an area which partly falls within the limits of the Cyprus EEZ and the continental shelf.

Earlier yesterday Mr Kyprianou had a private 40-minute meeting with the Swedish Foreign Minister and Council Chairman Mr Carl Bildt. Speaking to the press after the council meeting Mr Kyprianou noted the following: «Today the first General Affairs and External Relations Council under the Swedish Presidency was held. During the Council the priorities of the Swedish Presidency were presented, which are generally satisfying for us since they include issues like the environment, the economic crisis, unemployment and social issues as well as immigration and asylum issues, areas in which Cyprus is facing problems. A priority of the Swedish Presidency will also be the Middle East problem, which for us is also a basic priority.»

The luncheon had the opportunity to inform my colleagues on Turkey’s behaviour in the Eastern Mediterranean. An equivalent briefing was also made by my Greek counterpart on the Aegean. I gave information about the recurring violations of Cyprus’ air space and territorial waters, both which originate from the occupation and also those which concern particular activities like the latest search and rescue operation which took place within Cyprus’ territorial waters even if it was in the occupied part. I also briefed my colleagues on the problems pertaining to the issue of the EEZ and the disputes on behalf of Turkey, as well as on the lack of a legal basis for these claims. Cyprus is acting on the basis of international law and the UN Convention on the Law of the Sea which has been ratified by both the “27” and the “27” and the European Community. Cyprus’ actions are in full compliance with this legal framework. Turkey not only violates the international and legal framework but also it violates her obligations as an EU candidate country.

Indicatively I reminded my colleagues about the Conclusions of the European Council of December 2008 and the Negotiating Framework, which refer to good neighbourly relations and peaceful resolution of differences. I must remind that the problem is not just the dispute by Turkey but also the threat of using violence and the harassments with military vessels and aircraft which, in some cases, put the research vessels’ crews at risk. These actions surely do not constitute peaceful resolution of differences.

I also reminded, of course, my colleagues about the Joint Position of the EU’s “27” at the EU-Turkey Association Council in May 2009, which specifically refers to the right of member states to force bilateral agreements on the basis of the acquis communautaire and international law including the Convention on the Law of the Sea. We certainly warned that this ‘gunboat policy’ and the violation of these obligations do not constitute a candidate country and that there will be repercussions if Turkey continues with this approach. I must remind you that the aforementioned was said to brief the colleagues and no decision was to be made. The Swedish Presidency said it will monitor the matter and we will discuss it again in Nafplio. In the morning I had a rather lengthy tele-tete-meeting with my Swedish counterpart Mr Carl Bildt. The meeting was held in a positive and honest spirit. We discussed a wide spectrum of issues but we mostly focused on the Cyprus problem. EU-Turkish relations and the issue that emerged last week after Mr Rütt’s statement in the European Parliament. Without going into detail, his position is that his statements were misunderstood. We explained why we were bothered by these positions in the way that we have understood it. I was given the opportunity to explain in depth what our position is on each matter. We agreed that we will remain in constant contact and that there will be cooperation during the Swedish Presidency.”

talks in Cyprus, this coming autumn. The EDM was only tabled on 15 July, itself the historic 35th anniversary of the Greek Junta Coup against Cyprus President Makarios in 1974 which led to the problematic Turkish military presence on the island from 20 July 1974 until today. Despite the lack of time available for Turkish Cyprus to add, which ended on Tuesday when the House of Commons went in to Recess for the Summer, the list includes two Vice Chairs of Friends of Cyprus, Andrew Dismore and Simon Hughes, and other members, Roger Brown, Richard Burden, Mike Hancock, Lynne Jones, Andy Love, Bob Spink and Simon Whitehouse, three of the officers of the APPG on Turkey, Bob Laxton, Lindsay Hoyle and Paul Rowen, the former two members also of the APPG on Turkish Northern Cyprus, and another member of the APPG on Turkey, Peter Bottomley.

This cross party and cross alegreement consensus is unique in British politics leading to one of the leading members of the “Turkish Northern Cyprus” APPG to say this cross party agreement of British politicians who have trataditionally taken sides between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, to be historic. The wording of the EDM is as follows:

That this House welcomes the commitment shown by the two Cypriot leaders, Demetris Christofias and Mehmet Ali Talat, under the auspices of the United Nations, in persevering in the ongoing unity talks, further welcomes their agreement to open the Limnitis-Yesilirmak crossing; commends the work of the Missing Persons Committtee in discovering and retrieving the remains of both Greek and Turkish Cypriot missing to their families and the extensive clearing of the barriers. The leaders to expedite the process for a historic solution by Cypriots for Cypriots, particularly on the 36th anniversary of the events of 1974, recalls previous such incidents in 1963-64 and the late 1990s; further recalls with regret the suffering of all Cypriot people; and looks for-toward a future when a peaceful, reunited Cyprus will be a partner not only of Turkey, but the entire world removing all the obstacles for Turkey in December’s Accession Report and on its path to the EU generally, whilst vividly reminding Europe of the real suffering that the Turks fear the simple message of freedom for Cyprus; and the potential strength of our victimized people.

Cypriots Face Turkish Barbarism in Nicosia and Washington DC

The following is a report on last week’s 18 hour vigil and demonstration in Washington, DC to mourn the Missing Cypriots and mark the 35th anniversary of the Turkish military invasion and continuing occupation of Cyprus. The report speaks volumes for how much the Turks fear the simple message of freedom for Cyprus and the potential strength of our victimized people.

Macedonia: What’s in a Name? (part2)

Based on Government Statistics (2007) the population of Cyprus has grown to 789,300 persons and the Fertility Rate stands at 1.39 children per family and way below the 2.1 sustainable replaceable levels - there were only 8,575 births in 2007. Demographically at this rate, Cyprus will lose its land and its ancient culture. A good test case how quickly the demographic character of a nation can be changed is the model of the Turkish-occupied area of Cyprus: In 1974, there were 180,000 Turk-ISH Cypriot citizens of the Republic – this number of Turkish Cypriots has now been reduced to 55,000 persons residing in the north. Since then, over 200,000 Turk-ISH nationals from Anatolia, including the army, have settled in the occupied area with one purpose in mind; to change the demographic character of the island through a steady migration of settlers and high birth rates of 8.1 children per fam-ily should Cyprus be concerned by its present low Fertility Rate of 1.39? The obvious answer can only be “yes.” If the State is to offset its low fertility and impending social threat, it needs to replace such demographic plans to raise the levels of births to 2.1 children per family, if not more. This can be achieved through effective family finan-cies and proper education on the sub-ject which is an economical way of pro- tecting one’s own national interests.

Megas Alexandros of Macedon was born to an Epirote Princess and Macedonian father. Like all the monarchs before him, Alexandros spoke Greek, worshipping the Greek Gods, be-fore defying himself, claimed to be a descendant of Achilles and significantly spread Greek culture all over the known world. This last point is crucial. He did not spread Phoenician, Slavic, Latin or Ice-landic culture. He spread the Greek culture wherever it was, i.e. 333 CELTIC cities with Greek sound- ing names.

The teacher of Alexandros was a man who could be arguably known as one of the 10 greatest Greeks of all time. Aristotle. His philosophy that there are Greeks and there then are barbarians to be true. Cruise ship docks with dead whale on bow!

The Canadian Coast Guard was notified as soon as the dead animal was discovered, Princess Cruise Lines said.

Promising to co-operate with any inquiry, the firm added: “We take our responsibility to be good stewards of the marine environment very seriously, and have clear guidelines for our ships on how to operate if whales are sighted nearby, which include altering course and reducing speed as necessary. “The Sapphire has four swimming pools, boutiques and a spa on board. She spends each summer in Alaska and travels to Mexico, Australia and the South Pacific at other times of year.

Ingredients
2 cups whole milk
3/4 cup heavy cream
4 large eggs
1/2 cup granulated sugar plus 1 tablespoon for garnish
1/3 cup nut flavoured liqueur (recommended: D’Armenno or Frangelico)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon kosher salt
7 cups large dice cinnamon chalalah (or plain challah or brioché plus 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon) (about 10 ounces challah)
1 cup walnuts, toasted and coarsely chopped

Directions
Heat the oven to 350 degrees F and arrange a rack in middle.

Whisk together milk, cream, eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, liqueur, vanilla, and salt in a medium bowl until egg is broken up and mixture is smooth. Evenly distribute bread and walnuts in a 2 quart baking dish, pour custard mixture over bread, and allow to soak for at least 15 minutes.

Meanwhile, stirring about 8 cups water to a simmer over medium-high heat. Evenly distribute remaining 1 tablespoon sugar over bread pudding. Set the filled baking dish into a larger roasting pan and add enough of the hot water to reach halfway up the sides of the baking dish. Bake until custard is set and top is lightly browned, about 50 to 60 minutes.

Remove from water bath and let sit 5 to 10 minutes before serving.

Serve warm, at room temperature, or cold with Sweet Cream Walnut Sauce.

A luxury cruise ship has returned to port after a summer trip with a dead whale lodged on its bow.

The animal was discovered as the Sapphire Princess prepared to dock in Vancouver after travelling from Alaska. Officials from Canada’s Department of Fisheries and Oceans later removed the carcass from the scene at the Canada Place terminal. Tourists stopped to take pictures of the whale, while employees from the nearby Vancouver Convention Centre and Pan Pacific Hotel also gathered to watch.

Princess Cruise Lines, which operates the Sapphire Princess, said it did not know how or when the whale came to be stuck to the ship.

The company said: “We were shocked and saddened by this discovery, and sincerely regret the circumstances which led to the whale’s death.

“It is unknown how or when this could have happened, as we have strict whale avoidance procedures in place when our ships are in the vicinity of marine life.”

The company insisted it was not aware of any whales being sighted as the ship sailed through the Inside Passage to Vancouver.

The invention of writing, however, is credited to the Sumerians of Mesopotamia in the 4th millennium BC. Their descendants, the Sumero-Babylonians, developed the time system that we use today: an hour divided into 60 minutes, which are divided into 60 seconds.

Today, there are more than 2,700 different languages spoken in the world, with more than 7,000 dialects, most of which are catalogued by the Ethnologue language dictionary. In Indonesia alone, 365 different languages are spoken. More than 1,000 different languages are spoken in Africa.

The most difficult language to learn is Basque, which is spoken in north-western Spain and south-western France. It is not related to any other language in the world.

Greece defeated France 90-85 to win the FIBA Under-20 European championship on Sunday.

France led 59-50 early in the third quarter, but Greece used a 21-2 run to double their lead and put the game out of reach. Giannopoulos's next triple gave the hosts a 64-61 Greek lead after their team had scored on their next six possessions.

Greece were part of the team that took silver at the 2008 Under-18 European championships and have been a force in international basketball for the past few years. With Bogris, Kostas Sloukas, Georgios Bogris and Charalampos Giannopoulos all scoring 14 points; Leonidas Kaselakis had 11 points; and Nikos Pappas and Vlanti米尔 Giankovits each chipped in 10 points.

The future is certainly bright for Greek basketball. Seven players including all five starters scored double figures and were led by tournament MVP Costas Papapanagiotou’s 15 points as the golden generation added Greece’s first ever Under-20 gold to U18 gold in 2008 and silver from the U20 championships.

What is remarkable is also the average age of the players who came through a local club in Rhodes, which has always been a centre of youth development.

The young team has won the last three tournaments and is one of the favorites to win the U18 European championships. The future is certainly bright for Greek basketball.
Young Alex signs pro contract

"ELEFHERIA SPORT" MET AND SPOKE WITH ALEX STAVRINOU JUST WEEKS AFTER THE YOUNG GREEK CYPRIOI SIGNED A PROFESSIONAL CONTRACT WITH LEAGUE ONE SIDE CHARLTON ATHLETIC

Alex Stavrinou may not be a name familiar to the Greek Cypriot community in London, but by the end of the coming football season, there is every chance that he will be talked of as not only a footballer with ability but also a footballer with a bright future ahead of him.

Having just signed a professional contract with Charlton Athletic and having already made first team appearances on the club’s recent tour of Ireland, Alex is a young player who the community should get to know and look out for as he has the potential to be star.

Importantly, he has the character and personality to be someone the Greek Cypriot community will be proud of, and he is keen to stay true to his roots as the recent KOPA 7-a-side tournament showed. Alex was there to support his friends and in a moment when he found himself on the pitch talking to a friend during a half time break, his granddad ran onto the pitch, pulled him away to make sure he wasn’t getting into trouble.

Last week Alex’s agent, Cos Toffois, invited me to interview him and it was a pleasure to talk to a young man comfortable with the huge expectations that are being heaped on his young shoulders but someone who is also quite modest.

Who is Alex Stavrinou?

Alex will celebrate his 19th birthday this September and when I asked him who influenced his early love for the game, he was immediate in his response. Alex recalls going to watch his older brother play football and even though he was good enough to take part he was not allowed to play with footballers three years older than him. He talked openly about the support and advice he gets from his mother Lisa and father Tony and such is the respect he has for his father that Alex decided to take up the offer to represent his father’s homeland, Cyprus, at youth level, but more of that later.

Having excelled academically and at all sports at his school Saint Bonaventures in East London, Alex always knew that football was the career he wanted to pursue but it wasn’t easy and Alex had to overcome several setbacks. Sunday League football can be a chore for talent but the harsh realities of playing against inferior players and varied temperaments did not get to the 14-year-old Alex, and he continued to work hard on his game. Tottenham Hotspur quickly scouted him and having had a trial and then released, Alex returned to playing Sunday League football.

Charlton Athletic then came in for Alex and saw potential in the young centre back but just like at Tottenham, he was released. Another failed trial at Tot-tenham then led to Alex training with Arsenal’s youth set up and it was during this time that Charlton Athletic again invited him and this time he was asked to stay as part of the club’s Academy set up.

Having arrived at Charlton as a centre back, the coaches at the club saw a potential central midfielder in the making and he made the step into the engine room of the team when playing for the Under 16s. Since then, Alex has flourished and impressed all at the club. He even captained the reserve side last season and this summer he was offered his first professional contract.

Cyprus youth international

Such was his rapid development that during his academy years at Charlton that the Cyprus international youth team made contact and asked Alex to play for them. For Alex, this was an opportunity to be involved at international youth level and he was proud to pull on the shirt as one of the youngest members of the squad, Alex felt like an outsider and the familiar taunts to English-born Cypriots led to Alex feeling slightly isolated. He rose above it all and such is his professionalism that he continued to perform on the pitch.

Being labelled ‘the coaches son’ by aggrieved teammates, Alex showed off the pitch as well as on it that he has the class to rise above any negativity. In all Alex has made seven appearances for Cyprus at various youth levels.

Sacrifices

When asked about the sacrifices he has had to make to get to where he has, Alex is quite philosophical. He accepts that he cannot do things that his friends do but he knows that going out and staying out late will not give him the best chance to fulfil his dreams.

“If I want to have a career in the game, I can’t go out and be like a normal 18-year-old. There’s no way I can go out on a Friday night as I’ve got a game on the Saturday. It’s not easy but I know I have to make sacrifices.”

As a good looking, athletic young man with a career in professional football in front of him, the temptations of a social life are certainly out there, but Alex is adamant that football comes first. When talking about his favourite players it comes as no surprise that they play in his position. Analysing the game of his hero, Zinedine Zidane, Alex can identify what set the great Frenchman apart from others.

“He had an ability to always find space and on the ball, he was amazing. Tight control and total awareness. And when there’s goals he scores them.”

Alex also landed the footballing abilities of modern day midfield talents like Xavi and Iniesta of Barcelona while Lampard at Chelsea and Liverpool’s Steven Gerrard are players whose abilities he looks up to in England.

Alex has such an infectious personality that he will endeear himself to anyone who spends any time with him.

“I want to focus on my career. I know I am sacrificing going out with friends, having girl friends and having fun but the rewards are so great that I have to concentrate on that.”

The bigger picture is clearly important for Alex and this is another example of his single-minded approach and willingness to work hard to get to the top.

Aspirations and Hopes

I asked Alex about his hopes for the future. For the short term, he said:

“I want to make it in the first team at Charlton. I am confident that this season can be a breakthrough year that I can be a part of the first team squad and make some appearances.”

As for longer-term aspirations, Alex harbours hopes of making it big, and this is no surprise given the confidence he has in his ability.

“I believe I have it in me to one day be a Premier League player. I know it will not be easy but I am willing to continue to work hard, listen to the right people and keep making progress. I don’t think the Premier League is beyond me and that is definitely where I see myself playing in the future.”

Hard working and modest

Can Alex be at that level? His coach- es at Charlton certainly think he has potential and he has been likened to Claude Makelele given his disciplined nature and this is high praise indeed for a ... players who think that signing their first contract signal they have ‘made it’ but Alex is too grounded to believe that.

“The work hard has got me here but I have to continue if I want to progress.”

I asked him what advice he could give to anyone who wants to be a professional footballer. Even being labelled ‘the coaches son’ by aggrieved teammates, Alex showed off the pitch as well as on it that he has the class to rise above any negativity. Second year blues for CGS

The Cypriot Golf Society was on the receiving end once again, losing to the Afro Caribbean Golf Association for the 2nd year running.

The CGS team was not at full strength as 6 of the qualified players were away on holiday. The captain, Savvas Savva, had no alternative but to go down the list of the Order of Merit to complete his team. Having said that the team performed brilliantly and played some good golf which is reflected in the results. In the end the ACGA team were just that bit stronger and went on to win 10 – 8.

The Challenge Cup is a Ryder Cup type match between the two Societies. These matches began in 2002. The CGS won the Challenge Cup for the first 5 years. In future the tie should be brought forward by 2 weeks so that holidays don’t interfere and hopefully next year the CGS can recapture that winning feeling once again.

The Challenge Cup was held on Tuesday August 11. Everyone arrived at the Clubhouse by 07.30 for coffee and bacon roll a bit of socialising and for the two captains to reveal the order of play for their teams. The CGS team had 2 mokies, Chris Kalli and Tony Timotheou. Both players played extremely well. Chris Kalli won both his matches and Tony won one of his matches. Savvas Savva netted up the biggest victory against the ACGA captain Henry Laville, winning 7 & 5.

After lunch the battle began again, 12 matches with 12 points. After the evening meal and the speeches the CGS captain, Savvas Savva, presented the Challenge Cup to the winning captain, Henry Laville. Both captains praised their teams and both mentioned the importance of this event. Everyone enjoyed the day, the golf course was in excellent condition and the weather was kind to us once again.

Demetriou called up for Cyprus friendly

Eyon Orent’s Jason Demetriou has been called into the Cyprus squad for their international friendly with Albania on Wednesday August 12.

The O’s midfielder, 21, has been capped three times by Cyprus and will have the opportunity to add to his haul as Angelos Anastasidis – who reached the UEFA Champions League group stage last year having started – was selected by Anastasiadis in another friendly against Canada in late May.

Anorthosis dismiss coach after three months

Cypriot club Anorthosis Famagusta moved quickly and dismissed coach Ernst Middendorp a little under three months after his appointment following the club’s shock elimination from the UEFA Europa League. The 50-year-old German was installed as coach in early May but has paid the highest of prices for defeat in the second qualifying round by FK Petrovac – a defeat that is believed to have cost the club upwards of €500,000.

Following an official demand by PAOK on the grounds of preparing for European games, many other clubs led by Panathinaikos voiced their worries regarding swine flu and called for the league to start a week later.

The Super League had originally been pencilled in to start on the weekend of August 22/23 but will now start a week later. After the agreement of all clubs, the three television channels that have a contract with the Super League also agreed and were finally ratified by the Hellenic Football Federation (HFF). The first round of matches was to be cancelled and moved to the 29th August.

Swine flu threat delays start of Greek Super League

The first round of games of the Greek Super League has been postponed and put back to the 29th August. Following an official demand by PAOK on the grounds of preparing for European games, many other clubs led by Panathinaikos voiced their worries regarding swine flu and called for the league to start a week later. After the agreement of all clubs, the three television channels that have a contract with the Super League also agreed and were finally ratified by the Hellenic Football Federation (HFF). The first round of matches was to be cancelled and moved to another date but the HFF have instead just moved the whole fixture list a week later.

The league will still have to finish by April 18, as the national team will hopefully need time to prepare for the World Cup that starts in mid-June in South Africa should it qualify.
